No Inquest Planned In Death of Young Couple

The death of a Delta county young couple in a parked automobile was accidental and caused by carbon monoxide poisoning from auto exhaust fumes, authorities reported today. No inquest will be held.

Ferris Gagnon, 26, of Gladstone, and Miss Elizabeth Arline Kinnart, 27, of Perkins, were found slumped in the front seat of Gagnon's automobile shortly after noon yesterday.

The car with motor running was parked on a road near the C&NW railroad tracks on the North Gladstone bluff.

Father Drowns in '49
Dr. Otto S. Hult, Gladstone coroner, said he believed both had been dead 8 to 10 hours before they were found by Wilfred LaFave of LaFave's gas station. The parked car first was noticed by Ruel Newberry who lives nearby and who reported the matter to LaFave.

State police and Dr. Hult who investigated found the motor of the car still running and the interior of the automobile warm.

Miss Kinnart is the daughter of Mrs. Lillie Kinnart, widow of Charles Kinnart who drowned in Taconic creek near his Perkins home on April 27, 1949.

Nine Brothers, Sisters
Born at Perkins May 23, 1923, Miss Kinnart is survived by her mother and nine sisters and brothers, Viola, Wayne, Lyle, Rose, Marvin, Ella, Warren, Irwin and Roger.

The body is at the Kelley funeral home but arrangements for the funeral have not been completed.

Ferris Gagnon was born in Gladstone July 29, 1924, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gagnon, 1406 Delta avenue, Gladstone. He was employed by the Northwestern Plywood and Veneer corporation and was a member of the Buckeye Local.

Was War Veteran
A veteran of World War II, he saw service for 31 months in the European theater of battle.

Surviving besides the parents are two sisters, Mrs. Verma Hardwick of Fort Belvoir, Va., and Lois at home; and the following brothers, Reynold, Arnold and Philip Jr. of Gladstone, and Alvin with the U. S. Army at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The body is at the Skradski funeral home and services have been tentatively set for Thursday morning. Military rites will be conducted by veterans' organizations of Gladstone.

Dr. C. J. Corcoran Packing Chairman For Legion Baskets

The packing committee of the Christmas basket project for the American Legion is headed by Dr. C. J. Corcoran, who requests that all members of the committee be prepared to report at 7 p. m., Friday, Dec. 22, at Legion club rooms. Dr. Corcoran has headed the packing committee for the war veterans Christmas basket program for the past 20 years.

There are expected to be many requests for baskets from veterans for their dependents in Delta county this year. Dr. Corcoran said. All members of the packing committee will be required to accomplish the work in one evening.

Charles Green, Gladstone, Dies

Ran Hardware Store Many Years

GLADSTONE—Charles Green, 74, retired Gladstone businessman and sportsman, died early this morning at St. Francis hospital in Escanaba after a long illness. He lived at 720 Wisconsin avenue.

For many years, Mr. Green operated the Green Hardware store before he sold it two years ago, when he retired. Previously, he had operated a grocery store with Matt Hega at Kipling.

He was born June 21, 1876 in Yasa, Finland and came to the United States when he was 15, locating in Manistique. He moved to Kipling a short time later.

Mr. Green was a member of the Gladstone F&AM, Gladstone golf club and Child Welfare club. He was a former member of the Gladstone Rotary club and the Escanaba golf club.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mattie Elouist; a son, Charles, Jr., a student at Lawrence college; and two grandchildren.

The body is at the Kelley funeral home.

Efforts To Curb Inflation Told

Steps taken by the Federal Reserve System to curb inflation were described by Oscar F. Litterer, business economist of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, in a talk at a joint meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs at the Delta hotel Monday noon.

William Warmington, Escanaba, past president of the Michigan Bankers association, introduced the speaker.

"With the beginning of the war in Korea, the possibility of a business depression disappeared from the horizon," Litterer said. "It immediately became evident that it would be necessary to apply some controls to avoid another serious inflation of the price level."

"The war in Korea resulted in a burst of consumer buying. In this district the department store sales in July exceeded by 26 per cent the dollar volume in 1949. In one week, sales in Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Superior were 42 per cent higher than in the corresponding week of last year. In the surge of consumer buying, consumers redeemed government securities, withdrew time deposits, and sold shares in savings and loan associations for down payments on large consumer items and installment credit was secured for the balance."

Dollar Depreciated
Litterer pointed out that officials of the Federal Reserve System then urged a tightening up on credit. This included a recommendation that less liberal real estate credit terms be granted.

The speaker pointed out that as a result of inflation the dollar is now worth only 57 cents in terms of purchasing power during the period from 1935 to 1939. This depreciation of the dollar has short-changed individuals with fixed money incomes, such as those living on pensions or dividends from investments. Colleges and local schools also have been effected adversely, because incomes from their investments have not risen and it is impossible to raise taxes to keep up with the rise in prices.

Consumer credit is now controlled by the reamendment of Regulation W, Litterer explained.

Real Estate Credit
"By experience, we know that the rate of interest will not control consumer credit," Litterer said. "It must be controlled by minimum down payments and by maximum maturities."

"The terms of Regulation W were tightened in Oct. Department store sales receded from the peak reached in July, but credit sales did not decline as much as one expected on the basis of total sales. Retail sales in this district, with the exception of scattered items, have receded to the 1949 volume.

"Real estate credit is controlled by Regulation X. This type of credit is controlled by minimum down payments and maximum credit terms as is consumer credit. The purpose of this regulation is to hold down prices and cut back residential building to 800,000 units in 1951. This year we built about 1,350,000 units."

Ensign Klimetz Back From Korea

Flew Wounded Men From Battle Areas

Ensign Robert Klimetz, U. S. Navy, who was relieved of duty in Korea Dec. 4, has left for Paultons River, Md., to rejoin air transport squadron one, following a two-day visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Klimetz, 1011 Sheridan road.

Ensign Klimetz has been flying supplies to troops in Korea and removing wounded men from battle areas. During his tour of duty in Korea he made trips to Kimpoo, Wonsan, Hamhung and Hagaru.

Few Wounded Lost

In the last two weeks Ensign was in Korea, he operated into Wonsan and Hamhung, aiding in the night and day airlift established to remove the wounded making their way into Hamhung and Hungnam. "An unending stream of aircraft flew into the fields, providing ample supplies and removing all wounded from the area," Klimetz reports.

Handling of wounded in this conflict surpasses any previous system used and less than one per cent of the wounded are lost, the Escanaba Naval officer states. This is due to the great speed used in getting men to hospitals in Japan, he reports.

Helicopters pick up the wounded at the front and they then are relayed to transport aircraft at strips a few miles from the front. "Three hours later they are in Japan, hospitalized and receiving complete medical attention, Klimetz reports. Complete facilities for surgery are available very close to the front and this has saved many of the cases lost in past wars, Ensign Klimetz said here.

Will Be Reassigned

The Escanaba officer, who reports to Maryland for re-assignment says the northern part of Korea is much like Marquette, except that mountains are higher and there are only a few dirt roads and trails.

"Fighting on the ground was fierce and the danger of infiltration was tremendous," Klimetz reported. Guerrilla warfare is carried on by the North Koreans on a very high scale and greatly hampers supplies reaching forward areas. To bypass this, much supplies have been provided by air drop and at one time forward units were depending entirely on air support for supplies, Klimetz says.

Ensign Klimetz attended Escanaba high school, graduating in 1945 and later trained under the Navy V-5 program at Bucknell university in Lewisburg, Pa. He has also attended Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., and Michigan College of Mining and Technology.

Sunken Hospital Ship Menace To Shipping Outside Golden Gate

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—The Coast Guard said last night that a tugboat and a government tanker it was towing came close to disaster outside the Golden Gate.

Statements of the men aboard the ships raised the possibility that the Benevolence, sunk in a collision with the Mary Luckenbach on August 25, may have broken loose from the shoal on which she lay to become a floating derelict.

Involved in the accident were the red stack tug Relief and the Neches, a military sea transport service tanker being towed here from San Diego for reconditioning. The Relief had an eight foot section of her keel knocked off. The Neches had dents, holes and scrapes all along her keel.

Dickinson Uranium Lease Still Active; 9 Others Cancelled

LANSING—(AP)—Out of 15 applications received by the conservation department for leases to prospect uranium ore on state land, nine have been cancelled as not worth further exploration.

Four applications are still being investigated by department geologists and two are being explored further.

The original strike of promising ore on an 80-acre tract in Baraga county and a 180-acre tract in Dickinson county are the two "active" leases.

Department geologists continue to warn that there is still no proof that Michigan contains any extensive or rich enough deposits of uranium ore to make mining profitable.

Wholesale Disqualification Of Ballots Is Bad For Democracy

WHOLESALE challenges of election ballots on grounds of minor technicalities could easily cause more harm to political parties than any gain that might temporarily result through a reshuffling of the votes in the Nov. 7 election. Further, if the challenges result in disqualification of whole precincts it will be extremely difficult in future elections to get out a large vote.

In the past several years campaigns to get out the vote have gained general pub support. In Escanaba, for instance, the campaign sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce was instrumental in bringing forth an exceptionally strong turnout Nov. 7.

But if ballots are junked in wholesale lots by such mere technicalities as the inspector's initials being printed, instead of being written or because an inspector was improperly sworn in, the voters' reaction will be one of utter disgust. Such action would provide considerable substance to a belief that voting is a waste of time.

When a voter goes to the polls, he logically assumes that the inspectors and election officials are properly inducted and that the ballot the voter casts will be honored, counted and recorded.

A ballot improperly marked by the voter is one thing, but a ballot properly marked but not counted for some reason not the fault of the voter is another matter entirely.

A qualified elector should be encouraged in his belief that his vote does count. That is the basis of our democracy and it is a belief that needs strengthening, not discouragement.

Gas Tax Boost Likely In 1951

THE highway financing problem will be before the new legislature when it convenes in January and it appears inevitable that an increase in the gasoline tax will be enacted. A boost in the weight tax, at least for heavy vehicles, also is probable.

If Governor Williams wins the recount, which now seems likely, and if he has not changed his mind on the highway financing problem, he will oppose an increase in the gasoline tax and will propose instead a state corporation profits tax. The way the legislature shapes up now, however, the corporation profits tax is a dead issue and the lawmakers can pass an increased gasoline tax bill over the governor's veto if necessary.

Practically everyone agrees that something must be done about better road financing. The disagreement comes about in the problem of how to accomplish it. Since Michigan's 3c a gallon gasoline tax is among the lowest of any state, it is apparent that this can be increased without creating an injustice to motorists. And the gasoline tax spreads the cost of highway improvement to motorists directly upon the basis of use. Those who drive the most obviously should pay the most.

Of course, Gov. Williams may now recognize the impossibility of getting legislative approval for the corporation profits tax and may go along with the gasoline tax increase. He blocked action on the gasoline tax boost in the special session but he will be powerless to block it in the regular session in 1951. In the meantime, our road improvement program is delayed because of inadequate funds.

Good highways are essential to Michigan as a leading state in tourist development and a leading industrial state, as well. A program that fails to adequately provide for not only good road maintenance but good road construction, too, is a short-sighted one for Michigan.

SNOW REMOVAL (Sault Ste. Marie News)

The effect of heavy snowfall on American life was dramatically shown recently in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Pittsburgh was snarled by a record 27 inches of the deep white, Cleveland by 20 inches and drifts in Ohio were reported as deep as 23 feet in some places.

The heavy falls raise havoc with cities not generally prepared to handle snow as we in the Sault know it. No city the size of these industrial centers could afford to maintain equipment necessary to cope with snows of this depth.

Residents of the Sault area are relatively fortunate in snow-removal, in that it is necessary for us to maintain equipment capable of handling heavy snowfalls. In fact, snow-removal is one of the largest costs of road work in this area.

Even though we do maintain a relatively large amount of snow-removal equipment there are times when this is not sufficient for the job. Superintendent of Streets H. W. Murray says he has two graders, three plows, a sno-go, two side-walk plows and two horse-drawn plows to do the job in the Sault. He figures these are required to handle about 250 miles of plowing.

However, if the Sault were hit by 27 inches of snow, chances are the effect would be less than it was in Pittsburgh, where the effect was almost paralytic.

That's one advantage in preparing for a northern winter.

History has taught us that an agreement with Communists is good only so long as it serves Communist purpose. Often such accords are useful chiefly in lulling us to sleep. If we get a settlement, we'd be stuck with the stigma attaching to appeasement of communism, and would still face the risk of losing later what we'd held through the agreement.

A wiser course would seem to be to make the best fight we can to hold what we have in Korea, without getting so deeply involved that all-out war against China—with all its dangers for the decisive European theater—becomes inevitable.

That has always been Russia's game, and Red China's delegation appears wholeheartedly bent upon playing it, too.

Thus, you can search the recent record of Chinese deed and statement in vain for signs that Mao would welcome or even accept a settlement in Korea.

Yet, in spite of this weight of evidence he might astonish us and agree to some sort of terms. Supposing for an instant that those terms were not too unfavorable for us, what hope would we have that they would be long observed by China or Russia?

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Bellhops at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York, all World War II veterans, are sore as a boil at the big liquor parties thrown by the Chinese Communists in the Waldorf Tower.

One bellhop, on being summoned to the Communist suite, was asked to bring up the newspapers. He loaded himself with the New York Times, New York Mirror and the Herald Tribune and rapped at the door.

Taking one look at the newspapers, the bland Chinese reprimanded: "No, no, no, these papers. The Daily Worker."

The bellhop, though seething inside, just as blandly replied: "Sorry, sir, we can't get it here. You'll have to make your own arrangements."

TRAPPED MARINES

Worried Pentagon strategists will only talk about it privately, but one of the most serious military errors of any recent war was responsible for trapping the First Marine division and the two 7th Infantry regiments which made their painful, gallant fight out of Hagaru.

The tragic fact is that they never would have been trapped but for three unforgivable military errors.

The first error was lack of liaison between Lt. General Walton Walker, commander of the 8th army, and Major Gen. Edward Almond, commander of the 10th corps. For some strange reason, known only to MacArthur, these two generals had no battle communication with each other, but had to talk to each other by way of Tokyo some 700 miles away.

Second, both generals had their men racing for the Manchurian border to see which could get there first. Reassured by MacArthur's intelligence that they had nothing to fear from the Chinese, the troops fanned out, instead of driving forward in a strong, compact spearhead. Furthermore, the 10th corps under General Almond went racing off toward the north, instead of sticking close to the 8th army.

French Ambassador Henri Bonnet, acting on instructions from his government, warned U. S. officials against this advance before it started. Specifically, he warned that there were 700 miles of Chinese border toward which MacArthur was headed, along which the Chinese were concentrated.

The British also warned against advancing into this area, and these warnings were relayed to MacArthur by Washington.

U. S. WARNING

Furthermore, the joint chiefs of staff cabled a reminder to MacArthur that General Almond had no battle communication with General Walker.

MacArthur sent back a curt reply that he knew what he was doing.

Result was that the Chinese wisely hit at the vacuum between the 8th army and the 10th corps. They also hit between the advancing units of the two armies which were fanned out, not expecting resistance.

During this confusion, Gen. Almond tried to send his marines to close the gap between him and the 8th army. But after a brief, bloody battle, they were forced to turn back to the Chosin reservoir.

Then for some reason, so far not explained, the marines were allowed to remain at the reservoir for four days, giving the Chinese an opportunity to swarm all around them and cut off escape. The marines and 7th infantry could just as well have pulled back toward Hungnam harbor immediately. But with it necessary to relay orders back and forth to Tokyo, the orders did not come for four whole days.

Note—During this period, MacArthur had time to send five messages to American newspapers explaining why he was not to blame in Korea.

SEARCH FOR URANIUM

Government geologists are still searching frantically for uranium deposits in the U. S. A. At present, we import most of this vital ingredient for atomic bombs from the Belgian Congo. So far, uranium prospectors have sent 3,000 samples to Washington to be analyzed, of which some 700 showed traces of uranium, though usually not enough to bother mining. So far, no one has been able to collect the $10,000 bonus which the atomic energy commission has offered to anyone who makes a strike yielding at least four tons of uranium.

Benefits For GIs In Korea Are Studied; Insurance Aid Likely

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Congress is now taking up the second most expensive item of the Korean war and the big mobilization—veterans' and survivors' benefits.

The proposal to give a $10,000 GI insurance policy to every man in service and the payments of such a policy to the survivors of all men killed in Korea is the first item of business.

The intent of sponsors of this measure is to make sure that every man has a chance to buy GI insurance if he wants it. Thousands of men were rushed into Korea before they even had a chance to apply for it. And thousands of men have been killed who either had no insurance or less than the maximum of $10,000.

There is some feeling among Congressmen that this automatic granting of policies to men and survivors should be limited to $5000. However, all of the big veterans' organizations are for making the amount $10,000. The larger amount or some compromise close to it is considered most likely to be made law.

This insurance will not be provided free to the men for their lifetime. Most sentiment is to just make sure that the men are fully covered for a period of four months, during which time they could make up their minds on how much insurance they wanted for the future.

It is also likely that premiums, based on newer mortality tables, will be lower than they are for present National Service Life insurance policies. It was the use of out-dated mortality tables which caused an enormous dividend fund to collect for NSLI, which is now being paid out in dividends at huge bookkeeping expense.

Nothing is likely to be done during the lame duck session on a long-range veterans' program for the great mass of men now being put into uniform. But it is shaping up as a big issue for the new Congress. If all-out war can be avoided and a big military establishment is maintained to keep peace for the next 10 years, it is estimated that 750,000 men will soon start becoming veterans each year.

This poses some controversial and highly expensive questions for Congress to decide. Defense officials are on record as opposing a fat, long-range veterans' program with such things as free education and home loans. Their big goal is to encourage as many men as possible to make careers of the service.

Yet, if Veterans Administration is spending billions to make civilian life more attractive to young men it actually puts VA in competition with the Army, Navy and Air Force for the futures of all of the nation's youth.

The powerful veterans' organizations on the other hand are pushing for the extension of generous World War II GI rights to Korean vets. Some sharp controversy is building up in this field. The American Legion favors extension of all GI benefits to all men called to uniform for the emergency and mobilization.

Against this all-out grant is the stand of the VFW and AMVETS who are in favor of limiting such benefits to men who actually see action or who are stationed in the combat theater. Billions are involved in this debate.

FOR KOREAN VETS, TOO? GI Bill of Rights put two veterans of World War II into this campus picture at the University of California. Now Congress faces a controversy on whether to provide similar rights for veterans of Korean combat and others mobilized for the defense build-up.

As it stands now, the Legion's program for extension of GI benefits to all men called into uniform has the most support. And as the draft calls get bigger it is apparent that public pressure will mount for universal application of GI benefits to all men called to service.

Meantime, it is up to Congress to unsmile its laws governing benefits to survivors of servicemen. It has just been discovered that a 1925 law governing benefits to dependents of deceased government employees applies to military reservists who are killed in action. It gives the survivors of reservists in some cases up to twice as much as the survivors of regular Army and Air Force personnel.

That does not mean that survivors of regular Army and Air Force personnel aren't being adequately taken care of. A recent congressional study reveals, for example, that the widow of a serviceman killed on duty, 23 years old with no children, gets up to $46,000 from the government during her lifetime. If she has three children she will get up to $30,000 from Uncle Sam.

Nor are men discharged from the service for disabilities being left out in the cold just because they might not have World War II's GI rights extended to them. They get regular pensions at wartime rates and have all the facilities of the Veterans Administration hospitals available to them.

Labor's Protection

Dear Editor:

The laborer has only one thing to offer to the public, his labor. Whenever he feels that he is being cheated, he withholds his labor. For this, he reaps severe criticism and in recent years, he has been regarded as an obstructionist both in peace and war.

What does the manufacturer do when his compensation is too small? He ceases to operate. The merchant, generally, operates at a profit. If you cannot pay him the price that he asks, he waits for another customer who will pay him that sum.

Merchants, manufacturers and these belonging to different professions were the first to organize. For centuries, they worked in groups to serve their selfish ends. When the laborer tries to do the same, they cry "stop thief."

TAX DIVISION — At the recent semi-annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Association of Supervisors the question of financing the office of county school superintendent came up for discussion.

Now appointive, the supervisors wanted to return the office to the non-partisan elective ballot, and at the same time make it less costly—at least in some counties. Let it be noted that not one voice from Delta was raised in criticism of the county school superintendent's office here.

But there was some question (again from other counties) on the subject of using county tax money for the office, since there is a separate allocation in each county for education.

Supervisors from Iron county, for example, said emphatically that the county school superintendent's budget should come under the heading of education and be met with school millage—not millage allocated for county purposes.

WHAT'S IN A NAME—Without further pursuing the subject of financing, we would like to report concerning a subject involving Delta School Superintendent Hagle Quarntrom.

It was at a school meeting at Garden a few weeks ago that the conversation turned to the meaning of names. Quarntrom means "mill stream," Hagle reported. Walter Stellwagon, member of the Garden school board, said his last name means (and this is to the best of our recollection) a "small wagon."

But the youngest members of the Stellwagon family get it slightly mixed up and call themselves the "station wagons," a more modern note.

SLIGHTLY MIXED—Older folks as well as children get mixed up these days, including the thinking of some of the members of the U. P. Association of Supervisors.

An example of this at their recent meeting was the proposal, voiced by one member, to make the office of county school superintendent elective, amended a moment later to permit the board of supervisors to abolish the office in any county, if the office was deemed unnecessary.

"Wait a minute," said Henry Ford (no relation to the motor magnate) of Gaas-tria, association vice president, "I don't think it would be legal to make it elective and then abolish the office."

USED AT LAST—Fortunately for themselves, the supervisors in the townships are not responsible for the conduct of elections, a task which falls to the clerks.

One of the headaches of the township clerks was to find a secure place for the ballot boxes prior to the Kelly-Williams recount. As you may recall from news stories, in Lower Michigan the ballot boxes were locked up in a burial vault in a graveyard mausoleum.

But an informant tells me the ballot boxes for Masenville township were kept under lock and key in a cell in the Rapid River jail—only use ever made of the jail or cell, according to one Rapid River business man.

ROADS AND TAXES—This column keeps going back to the Supervisors Association for one reason or another.

The comment this time is in connection with some observations by William J. Karas, Delta road superintendent-enranger, on the financing of roads in Delta county and the state.

If the Michigan Good Roads Federation report is adopted by the state legislature and gasoline tax is increased by 2 cents per gallon, this county will receive an estimated $116,000 in additional funds, Karas told the supervisors.

State of Louisiana has a 9-cent gas tax but the price of gasoline per gallon is no higher than in Michigan, he added. "This means we have been paying for roads in Louisiana by keeping our gasoline tax low, Michigan that once ranked second in the United States in road development is now down to 42nd," Karas said.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Washington — The British government tonight rejected plans sponsored by private American organizations for sending food through the blockade to German-occupied countries. The announcement, made by Lord Lothian, British ambassador, stated the British felt that under present circumstances any such scheme would materially assist the enemy and thereby postpone the day of liberation for the peoples under German subjugation.

Escanaba—The Escanaba Yacht club last night elected John G. Erickson commodore for the coming year.

Gladstone—Jule Potvin, who has been employed on the steamer Wyandotte has returned to spend the winter months here.

Manistique—Mr. and Mrs. Howard Graff and daughter, Deborah, are leaving Saturday for a three-week visit with relatives in Boston, Mass., and New Canaan, Conn.

20 YEARS AGO

Washington — Representative Frank P. Bohn today succeeded in having a section providing for building a coast guard life saving station at Grand Island, near Munising, put back in the treasury department appropriation bill in the Senate.

Oso, Norway—Sounding a confident note on world peace, but at the same time warning that western civilization could not stand another war, Frank B. Kellogg, whose efforts toward peace resulted in the Kellogg-Briand pact, today received the Nobel peace prize for 1929.

Gladstone — E. R. Carter of this city, state legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, saw the Communist demonstration in Washington which preceded the opening of the "lame duck" session of Congress. Carter, who was attending a Brotherhood conference in the capital, also tasted some of the tear gas used by authorities in quelling the disturbance.

Fuse Blues

By Gordon Martin

It was just a quiet evening 'round McGinley's modest house—in his easy chair he napped until awakened by his spouse. She complained about the failure of electric lamps to light, and demanded that he get the lighting system working right. So McGinley sighed and wondered why a man could never snooze, as he stumbled to the basement to replace a blown-out fuse.

Then he opened up the box containing fuses on the wall, and he wondered just which one it was he'd have to re-install. First he tried the one upon the left and shouted to his wife, in the hopes it was the one to bring some brightness to her life. But it still was dark upstairs, she yelled, and so he tried once more—when it too was not the proper one, then poor McGinley swore.

So in making many changes he was hopelessly confused, as he mixed his extra fuses with the ones that had been used. He could find no combination that would light his domicile, so at last he pitched them all away and drove to town a mile, where he bought all brand new fuses so he'd surely have some light, and he thus escaped the doghouse and a very sleepless night.

Garlic, Red Wine And Verse Wreck Marriages

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

Ain't love grand? Just think of it—one man and one woman, living only for each other, making plans together, raising a family, going through the years in blissful harmony. Of course, sometimes love fades, for one reason or another.

During 1950, love faded for quite a few couples. And what caused it to fade? Well, gather round and listen to some grounds for divorce:

A Fort Worth, Tex., woman asked for divorce. She said her husband woke her up in the middle of the night and said to her: "You would make a beautiful corpse."

Antoinette Zegras of Oakland, Calif., told the court that her husband had the unpleasant habit of eating raw garlic and drinking red wine. Then he would breathe in her face.

Mary McElhanie of San Jose, Calif., had to put up with a husband who put a loaded pistol on the bedside table before they went to bed. He would add, she charged, "There's going to be a murder around here some day."

Another husband whose marriage hit the rocks was poetically inclined. Julia Whaley of Knoxville, Tenn., was granted a divorce after she showed the court a verse her husband had written her:

"Your eyes may shine,
Your teeth may grin,
But none of my money
Will you get.
Phooey on you."

Then there was Mary Kelly, of Montclair, N. J. She testified that her husband slept with a hammer and a hatchet under his pillow. When she asked him what they were for, she said, he told her, "I'll conk you."

Eileen Barrett of Chicago was a 200-pound wife whose husband wanted her to lose weight. But she objected to his method, which was to hit her in the stomach every time she tried to eat.

From Miami, Fla., came the sad plight of Marjorie Baughman. She sued her husband of four months for divorce, complaining he treated her as a child, Marjorie was 15.

Blanche Socha of Milwaukee, Wis., thought her husband was too free with his interpretation of the Sir Walter Raleigh story. She charged that her husband forced her to put a board across a mud puddle for him to wade on. She said she had to wade through ankle-deep mud.

Another Milwaukee wife, Narveille Witherspoon, complained that her husband took too long buying a turkey. He went out for the bird Thanksgiving Eve in 1948 and didn't come back until Christmas Eve, she said, without the bird. But he had a logical explanation—he said he'd been sleeping in the basement.

Another allegedly cruel husband was the one that belonged to Jackie Klug of Spokane, Wash. She charged her man left her to play high school football.

Also sports-minded was Shirley Losey's husband. In seeking a divorce in Los Angeles, Shirley complained that he hadn't complied with a court order to return her prize bowling ball. So he produced it—soured on one side with the holes filled with lead.

Elizabeth Deckard of Los Angeles charged that her ever-loving had other girl friends. To make things worse, he bought them gifts and charged them to her charge account.

Are husbands dogs? Not quite, if you note the testimony of three husbands. Roy Canfield, of Kearny, N. J., said that his wife fed a neighboring man's dog for years. When the man moved, she went along. She said she couldn't bear to be separated from that dog.

Then there's George Kleinrichmidt of Cincinnati. He said their dog "came first in everything." Once, he told the court, somebody stepped on the dog's foot. "She picked it up and asked me to kiss its foot," he said.

Cleveland, O., husband John Ambicki told a divorce court that

Expects Judy Will Beat Rap

Spy Would Have Been Shot In Russia

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK—The tricky technicality is ever with us, especially in the courts of law, but it seems a shame that the government of the United States must spend a few more hundreds of thousands to directly retrace the trial of Judy Coplon, the duly convicted spy. Especially since the court of appeals admits that her "guilt is plain," even while granting her the new hearing.

It has been a year and a half since little Judy was grabbed by the FBI as an accomplice of Valentin Gubitchev, the Russian spy who has since been deported. Coplon got tried in Washington, was found guilty, and was handed a 40 month-to-10 years sentence. She was retried here last March, and drew 15 years. She has been out on bail, and since has found romance, and freedom. She married one of her lawyers, and her wedding was described as gushing, as the nuptials of a vested movie star.

I will bet you a buck that Judy never does a day of serious time for treasonous espionage against her country, a thought that is reasonably displacing in light of our current mess in the East. In a way he had to play second fiddle to a Dalmatian. "On the marriage night," he charged, "upon retiring to bed I found her large Dalmatian dog lying in bed with his head on the pillow." When he protested, his bride said: "My dog comes first and if you don't like it, go to sleep on the couch."

James Hays of Los Angeles complained to a divorce court that his wife taught their 17-year-old son to apply lighted matches to his father's bare feet while the old man slept.

Unhappy for a different reason entirely was Mrs. LeRoy Nichols, of Paterson, N. J. She charged her husband with cruelty. She said he made her sit on his lap, embraced her and kept her from doing her housework.

SANTA SAYS:

Giving is better than receiving —you'd better hurry and get something to give.

the woman is an implied accomplice in the murder of young Americans by a Soviet-steered foreign power. Those who betray their homeland implicitly recommend its overthrow by violence.

Death In Russia

In Mother Russia where her former boy friend is probably dead by now for fumbling, Miss Coplon would have been summarily shot, after torture, for a fifth of her local sin. We nab her with the goods and she gets what? Two trials, with another upcoming, and a fine chance to beat it on technicalities, if public apathy in the face of more serious problems does not allow it to be shelved until forgotten. What, for instance, ever became of Serge Rubinstein's big tax-fraud trial?

The finest of hair-splitting has been used in the decision of the U. S. Court of Appeals, which says that Coplon's arrest without warrant was illegal. The court points out that the FBI does have the power to arrest without warrant, if the subject is likely to escape, but says that Coplon didn't appear to be on the verge of flight. As a result of this, the pardoned documents, in her handbag are not admissible as evidence.

Wire Taps Forbidden

The court also holds that FBI wire taps, forbidden by federal law, were possibly instrumental in indicating La Belle's guilt. At least, the last court that tried Miss Coplon failed to prove that the wire tap did not lead to any part of the evidence on which this saddle-shod Mata Hari was convicted.

ed. This is a cute quibbler—about like saying that a machine-gun killer is reasonably innocent because he did not personally invent gunpowder.

"The conviction must be reversed," the court of appeals says, "but we will not dismiss the indictment, for the guilt is plain."

No legal eagle, is it? It is tough to see how the country can lick Miss Coplon with this history, since the basic evidence is founded on an "illegal" arrest, thereby nullifying the worth of the documents she had tucked away between the lipstick and the mad money.

So long as the accusing finger of wire tap, for additional evidence, is pointed at this fair flower of democracy, she owns a beautiful out—much as if she had thrown the gun in the river and shipped the corpus delicti to a maiden aunt in Tibet.

So the bet is Judy beats it, despite the guilt, despite the sinister intent on collusion with an avowed enemy power. This is America, the home of the more-than-even break, and I still think they oughta shot her.

Happy Is The Day When Backache Goes Away . . .

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait. Try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Time Zones Were Set Up By Railroad Convention

(By The Associated Press)
NORFOLK, Va.—It was time somebody did something about time, and 67 years ago the railroads did it.

In early 1883 every town and city in the country kept its own time by the sun. There was no relation of one time zone to another. At one period, it was estimated that there were more than 100 sun-time localities.

It was noon in Atlanta when the sun crossed the meridian there—but it had been high noon in Jacksonville 13 minutes before and it wouldn't be noon in Birmingham until nine minutes later.

Schedules Confused
Time travels rapidly—more than 1,000 miles an hour. But there is a difference of 67 seconds between the eastern and western extremities of Chicago, and even a second or so between the ends of the Brooklyn bridge.

The confusion was absolute chaos to railroad men. So much depended on fixing the time accurately. Going around a mountain curve two minutes too soon might be altogether too late. The railroads first sought to overcome this confusion by the use of master time clocks to correlate the movement of all trains in any specified area. If the master clock happened to be five minutes slower than its local sun time, all trains of the division were that slow together.

The further west the rails ran, the greater became the problem of synchronization, and the railroads sought further over-all standardization. In Chicago on Oct. 11, 1883, the general time convention of railway managers (now the Association of American Railroads) adopted a system of time zones which, with few changes, is the same system in use today. It was put into effect all over their lines on Nov. 18, 1883.

Standard Accepted
In one minute's time, in virtually all of the railroad stations in the land telegraph instruments, previously wired to an electrical connection with the observatory block then in Allegheny, Pa., were switched in and the system of four standard time zones was in effect. In relatively short time localities adopted it and it became the accepted way of fixing time.

The "railroad watch" and "railroad time" became fixed in the thoughts of the people as the 11th degree of accuracy.

The effort to perfect that accuracy has continued. Officials of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad here say all railroads have definite rules governing the inspection of watches owned by employees who have anything to do with train movements. The line no longer depends on the pride of each watch owner—it makes sure that his watch is a good one and that he keeps it that way.

The standard railroad watch cannot be smaller than a size 16 or larger than an 18, though the latter, biggest ever made for normal use, is not manufactured any more in the United States. It has to have a glass crystal because a plastic crystal might be bent accidentally against the hands.

It has to be adjusted to five positions to keep perfect time. Perfect time to the Seaboard means not varying more than 5 1/2 seconds every 24 hours within a temperature range from 98 degrees, body heat, to 32 degrees, freezing.

Exact Requirements
The railroad watch must have 31 jewels and be lever set. The reason for this is that in winding a stem-set watch the hands could be tripped and accidentally set. In a lever set watch, the bezel holding the crystal must be removed and the lever pulled out from under the dial before the hands can be moved.

The railroad watch also must be adjusted to insure even pressure from the hairspring at high and low winding, and it must have a micrometer regulator. Furthermore, it must have a sort of steel that will not magnetize the hairspring and it must be so immune from temperature changes that expansion or contraction will not affect the balance wheel.

But the Seaboard, and most other railroads as well, are not satisfied with all of this. Besides the constant daily comparisons of watches all along the line, the noon time check and hourly corrections each day from the Naval Observatory in Washington, employees must have their watches inspected annually by a certified jeweler and compared monthly to note and record variations.

Even the man who works far out from cities where approved time inspectors are located is not forgotten. Special traveling watch inspectors periodically move over the lines to section foremen, signalmen, towermen, levermen and construction gangs.

THESE FIVE STANDARD OILERS from Peoria, Illinois, have a total of more than 205 years of service with us. Three of them are now retired and receiving monthly retirement payments. Left to right are Chris Ludwig (retired), W. H. Flanagan, T. V. Warren, Charles Eberle (retired), and Tom Johnson (retired).

WHY 8,700 OF OUR EMPLOYEES HAVE BEEN WITH US OVER 20 YEARS

SARAH BARKER was absent from our St. Louis, Missouri, office for six weeks as a result of an off-the-job accident. A large part of her hospital expenses was paid by Standard Oil's contributory hospital and surgical operation insurance. She also received substantial salary payments under our sickness and disability benefit plan, which covers employees when sick or when injured on or off the job.

NELLE SAGE works in our Indianapolis, Indiana, office. She is shown here receiving her pin from Mr. J. E. Millen in recognition of thirty years of service with the company. We are proud of her and the more than 8,700 other employees (out of a total of 46,700 in Standard Oil and its subsidiary companies), who have been with us twenty years or more.

WHEN JIMMY SHALLENBERGER was born, a large share of the bill was paid by Standard Oil contributory group hospital and surgical operation insurance held by his father, M. J. Shallenberger, who works for us in Joliet, Illinois. Our employees and their families are protected by one of the finest employee benefit programs in any industry.

TOM JONES of Detroit, Michigan, retired after more than 50 years service. He is receiving a monthly income for life under our employee retirement plan, to which employees and the company both contribute. Like all features of the benefit program which are contributory, the retirement plan is entirely voluntary; 94% of our eligible employees belong.

MACK CLARK is a tank car loader at our Whiting refinery. Like each of Standard Oil's 46,700 employees, he is backed by an average investment of $30,100 in tools and equipment. Good workers plus good tools mean high productivity, which is the foundation of a high standard of living. Our employees averaged more than $4,600 in wages and benefits last year.

THERE IS SAFETY on the job. We have won many industry safety awards and our accident rates are so low that our employees are actually safer at work than they are in their own homes. John Savage and Russell Holm point with pride to the safety record of their department at our Whiting, Indiana, refinery—a record typical of Standard Oil, where employee safety is always a first consideration.

Aid Santa by Shopping With Care

By ANNE LARSEN

NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The sounds that drift into parents' bedrooms after small slippers feet have pattered to gift-laden trees on Christmas morning are not a hit-or-miss matter.

Whether parents are to hear cries of delight or sighs of disappointment depends largely upon planning. This includes giving careful thought to the toys they purchase, as well as preparing their children in advance for the gifts they are likely to receive.

Never should a child be allowed to build up high hopes for a pony or some other unattainable dream if there is no chance of his receiving it. Such impossibilities should be quelled in the beginning, and his anticipation turned in another direction.

Unless the sky's the limit on your budget, it's best to guide your youngster in deciding what St. Nick should bring. Instead of asking flatly, "What do you want?" try suggestions such as, "Wouldn't it be nice if Santa brought you a sled this year?"

It's a poor policy, too, to take your small fry on a visit to Toys and without first discussing with him what he should say to Santa Claus. And unprepared child often stutters out the first thing that comes into his mind, then stubbornly clings to an unfortunate choice simply because he's committed himself.

In choosing toys, make certain you're buying them for your child and not yourself. When parental frustrations shine through the Christmas tissue, the package is not a pretty one.

Don't buy boxing gloves instead of the skates your son ordered just because daddy is a disappointed pugilist; and avoid substituting ballet slippers for a tea set simply to satisfy mama's leanings toward the classic arts.

Make your choices early—while the stocks are still large. It's unfair to your child for you to accept just anything in order to get out of the shopping crush.

Judge a toy by its play value, not by dollars and cents. Avoid the attitude expressed in such comments as, "She'd better like this; it cost me $25." Never should there be any attempt to impress neighbors or friends by Christmas generosity to your children.

Playthings should offer more than eye appeal. No matter how many cute antics a mechanical toy may perform, a child will usually tire of it within a short time. Youngsters prefer doing to watching.

Try these suggestions from Dr. Grace Langdon, child development adviser to the American Toy Institute, to assist you in making suitable and pleasing selections for your children.

Before setting out on your shopping jaunt, devote a few days to watching your children at play. Note the toys they prefer and the games they play most frequently. You'll then know whether each article you consider is suited to their current abilities and interests.

Provide toys for balanced play activity. Avoid concentrating upon just one type of toys, such as indoor games. Four types are desirable.

SNOW-COVERED CHRISTMAS TREE—For a glistening, snow-capped Christmas tree, cover the branches with fluffy, homemade "snow." Empty a package of soap flakes into a galvanized steel pail. Add warm water gradually, beating with a rotary beater until thick and fluffy. Spread suds on the tree with a large spoon. For a sparkling effect, sprinkle wet "snow" with shiny powdered mica. When dry, trim the tree with lights and other decorations. The "snow" helps to keep the branches green and fire-resistant, as does standing the base of the tree in a galvanized steel pail or tub filled with water or wet sand.

Children need toys for active play outdoors, such as bikes, push-and-pull toys, or gym equipment. They also need playthings which will develop their muscular control and creative imagination. Blocks, painting equipment and hobby kits are included in this group.

Since children are little imitators, they need cowboy outfits or pint-sized carpet sweepers to help them act out real—and unreal—life as they see it.

They also need toys for group play. Youngsters get their first lessons in fitting into society as good citizens through such activities as see-sawing or by playing competitive games like checkers.

Bark River-Harris
Seniors Present
Play At Wilson

"Brother Goose" was played to a capacity audience by the seniors of the Bark River-Harris high school at the Kell auditorium at Wilson Monday evening. The audience gave enthusiastic response to the play, a comedy effervescent throughout with good dialogue and funny situations, yet presenting a wholesome family theme.

Brother Goose was sympathetically interpreted by Melvin LeClair, with Dorothy Meyers and Marie Guenet playing opposite him as Lenore and Peggy respectively. The parts were completely opposite in type and were well played, Lenore with frigid hauteur, Peggy with mischievous quiet, thus bringing out the mild authoritativeness of Jeff.

The brood of three children, all highly individualistic, were: Wes, the girl-bewitched brother, amusingly portrayed by Kenneth Kane; Carol, who hopes to get rich from contest entries, convincingly played by Lois Charbonneau; and Hy, the ten-year-old football enthusiast, made colorful and winning with sustained vigor and convincing sincerity by Betty McNaughton.

Eve, the Southern charmer opposite Wes, was engagingly played by Laverne Sundquist, with excellent dialect and authentic Southern manner.

The character bits were numerous and well projected. Helen, the tired maid who quits, was convincingly presented by Elaine Savage. Sarah, the colored maid was excruciatingly funny in Beatrice DeLoughery's interpretation of the role. Pat DeLoughery kept the audience convulsed as Mrs. Trimmer, the virile and hearty owner of Wee Wee Inns. Kenneth Keul, as the embattled truck-driver, gave a completely convincing portrayal of his role.

The ensemble playing was excellent. The synchronization of on-stage and off-stage action was skillfully worked out.

The production was a financial, as well as a cultural success.

D. A. V. Annual
Children's Party
Well Attended

Unmindful of the storm, 80 persons attended the annual children's Christmas party held at the Legion club rooms by Escanaba Chapter 24, Disabled American Veterans and its Auxiliary.

Pot luck supper was served at 7 followed by a program which included group singing of Christmas carols, a reading, "The Night Before Christmas" by Billy Goodreau, a tap dance by Mary Goodreau, an accordion selections by David Norden and "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" by the assembly. Mrs. Herbert Finman was accompanist.

Santa distributed the children's gifts and the adults exchanged gifts. Members also brought gifts to be sent to hospitalized veterans. One box was sent to the Veterans' hospital in Iron Mountain and another forwarded to Florence Green, Lower State chairman.

Table decorations carried out the Christmas theme appealing to children, holiday trees, bells and stars. Two chimneys from which hung red and green stockings showed Santa's reindeer just arriving.

Miss Truman Wins
Applause—And Once Again, Criticism!

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—(AP)—Margaret Truman's singing brought applause for two encores last night from an appreciative audience of 1,500.

But a newspaper critic termed her voice "not suited to operatic arias or orchestral accompaniment."

Miss Truman was guest soloist with the Chattanooga Symphony orchestra.

Critic Ruth Golden of the Chattanooga Times commented: "Miss Truman is a gracious artist x x x and she was at all times winning and charming. Unfortunately Miss Truman's voice is not suited to operatic arias or orchestral accompaniment."

However, Mrs. Golden added: "It is to be hoped that she will be a patient student until her voice develops more maturity."

Stonington Man Arrested As Hit And Run Driver

Calvin Lippold of Stonington was arrested Sunday for leaving the scene of a property damage accident and he is scheduled to be arraigned in justice court here.

Lippold is alleged to have been the driver of an auto which struck a car owned by Joe Kukanick of Kipling at the Delta avenue-Ninth street intersection Saturday night and they left the scene.

However, he left a few parts of his auto at the scene and some-one obtained his license number and Michigan State Police made the arrest later at Stonington.

Teach Skating CH Suggestion

Recreation Supervision Discussed Monday

That an experienced skater be secured to teach speed and fancy skating in Gladstone this winter was suggested at the Coffee Hour Monday morning.

It was pointed out that rink facilities here are excellent each winter and that proper instruction would develop skill in the younger skaters.

This led to a discussion of other recreation problems here and the need for supervision in various fields. Norman Harris, ski club president, came in for praise for his active, enthusiastic leadership of that organization.

The City of Gladstone was praised for the attractive Christmas decorations which mark the business section and also for the excellent job of snow removal done during the past week.

Contributions are now being received for the Christmas Home Decoration contest and Rev. Theophil Hoffmann is in charge of the fund. Judging of the various entries will be made by the PTA on Friday, Dec. 22.

Illegal Venison Proves Costly

Garden Pair Pay Justice $215.60

John Breed and Leo Lester, both of Garden, were arrested Saturday night in Nahma township on a charge of illegal possession of venison.

Two doe deer carcasses were found in their possession. Arraigned Monday in the court of Justice O. C. Estenson they pleaded guilty and each was fined $100 and assessed court costs of $7.50. In addition the deer were confiscated and they lose their deer hunting privileges for three year periods.

Arrests were made by Conservation Officers Hugh Fisher and Richard Lahti of Nahma.

Eli G. Constantino of Ensign escaped unscathed when an auto he was driving went off the pavement, hit a snow bank and rolled over late Saturday night several miles north of the junction of US-41 and 2 west of Rapid River. Constantino told Michigan State police that he attempted to pass another auto, struck ice on the pavement, skidded and then went off on the shoulder where the car hit a bank and rolled.

Tom Masterson Hurt In Malaya

Is Attacked By Mob In Singapore

TOM MASTERSON

Tom Masterson, Associated Press bureau chief in Singapore, was injured in a riot Sunday night, his mother, Mrs. Emily Masterson of 1212 Dakota avenue, was informed in a cablegram yesterday afternoon.

Masterson, who has been in Singapore since 1948, suffered a broken leg and other bodily injuries. He is being hospitalized in Singapore, but his injuries are not critical.

The Gladstone man, a former war correspondent in China, was injured in a riot Sunday night, his mother, Mrs. Emily Masterson of 1212 Dakota avenue, was informed in a cablegram yesterday afternoon.

Larry Allen, (P) correspondent in Singapore, was with Masterson at the time of the attack. Yesterday Allen still was missing, and the car in which they were riding had not been located.

According to (P) reports from Singapore, about 5,000 Malaysians stormed for three hours at the supreme court building, where a hearing in the child custody case was underway. Later thousands of fanatic Muslims threatened the Catholic convent, where the girl and her Dutch mother were reported in hiding.

Masterson, a graduate of Gladstone high school and Notre Dame university joined the (P) staff at Detroit in 1942. He was stationed in Shanghai and Peiping in 1946-47, and for a time was held as a hostage by Chinese Communists in Manchuria.

Prior to joining (P), he worked on newspapers at Plymouth, Fond du Lac and Appleton, Wis. His wife and daughter, Margo, now live in Fond du Lac.

White Christmas Buffet

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Here are two fine recipes for a Christmas supper party. Adapted from an old recipe, the Shrimp Mull can be prepared ahead of time and then be reheated and served over that wonderful product—pre-cooked rice. I know of no addition to pantry shelves that does better service than this rice; it's so quick and easy to prepare and produces such fluffy, good-to-eat grains. Add a green salad and hot rolls to the shrimp for your holiday menu, then end with a coconut igloo dessert—snowy white and glamorously beautiful for holiday parties.

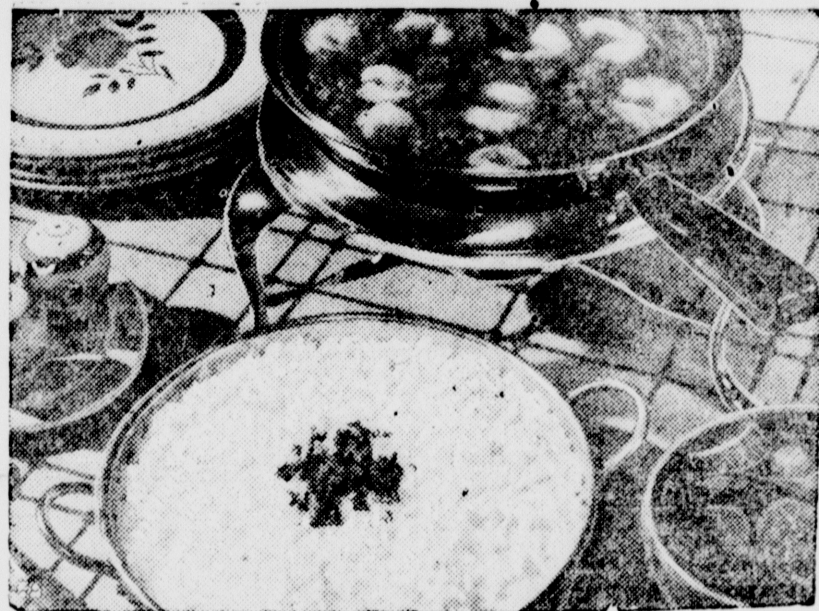

SHRIMP MULL
Ingredients: 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1/4 cup diced onion, 1 small garlic clove, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1 No. 2 can (2 1/2 cups) tomatoes, 2 cups water, 1/2 cup catsup, 1/2 teaspoon celery seed, dash of tabasco sauce, 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/8 teaspoon pepper, 1 to 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 pound raw shrimp (peeled, black vein removed, and cut in two lengthwise), 1/4 cup fine cracker crumbs, 1 package (1 1/3 cups) pre-cooked rice.

Method: Melt butter or margarine in saucepan or large deep skillet; add onion and cook over low heat a few minutes. Meanwhile peel garlic and crush in 1/2 teaspoon of the salt until garlic is in fine shreds. Add to onion with remaining salt, tomatoes, water, catsup, celery seed, tabasco, Worcestershire and pepper. Cover and simmer 1 hour. Add lemon juice and shrimp and cook five minutes or until shrimps are done through. Add cracker crumbs and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Prepare pre-cooked rice according to directions on package. Serve shrimp over rice. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Note: One box of quick-frozen shrimp may be used if desired.

CHRISTMAS COCONUT IGLOOS
Ingredients: 1/4 cup butter, 1/2 cup sugar, dash of salt, 1 egg (separated), 1/2 cup drained canned crushed pineapple, 1/2 cup broken walnut meats, 24 large vanilla cookies, 1 cup cream (whipped), 1 cup shredded coconut.

Method: Cream butter; add sugar and salt gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Add egg yolk and mix well; now add pineapple and nut meats. Beat egg white until stiff and fold in. Spread mixture between cookies and stack 3 to a serving. Chill several hours in refrigerator. About 1 hour before serving, frost top and sides of each stack with whipped cream and sprinkle with coconut. Chill again. Makes 8 servings.

Virginia received many gifts.

Many Children At Brotherhood Yule Party Here Sunday

The first children's Christmas party held by the Lutheran Brotherhood at Zion Lutheran church was enjoyed by a large number of children and parents who crowded into the basement hall last Sunday afternoon. Movies appropriate for the season were shown by Fred Bernhardt, and Gus Nye led in the singing of Christmas carols.

Lunch was served by the men of the Brotherhood. Rev. G. A. Herbert, pastor officiated as master of ceremonies.

In between two Christmas trees there were placed a fireplace and a miniature church made by one of the men. Gifts were distributed to all the children. It was the consensus of those present that another party should be held next year.

The pupils of the Sunday school will hold their annual Christmas Festival Service next Sunday, December 17, at 4:00 p. m.

Doll I. Q. Hits New High

BEST-DRESSED . . . Wanda, the walking doll, wears a dress just like her small mother's, both designed by Sophie.

KISSING DOLL . . . This is the Blessed Event doll, which changes facial expressions, sucks its thumb and kisses.

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It's beginning to look as if dolls are smarter than people.

Those in Santa's 1950 pack do practically everything that real live children do. Even the officials of the American Toy Institute are going around with a dazed look these days, as if they were afraid to believe their eyes.

Noma, the first electronic doll, sings, laughs, talks and prays in a real little-girl voice when a button on her tummy is pressed. There's nothing to wind up or plug in; the voice mechanism operates on electronic principles.

Newborn babies of the doll family are especially precocious. There's the Blessed Event doll, for instance, which frowns, smiles and kisses back when you press the button. It also can pout, suck its thumb and nurse. Another lifelike baby doll weeps big wet tears and wails lustily, just like a real live baby. The talented Dykes doll has learned to drink from a glass this year. For fashion conscious young mothers, there's Wanda, the walking doll, dressed in an outfit designed by Sophie, the noted American couturiere, who also has turned out matching dresses for the little-girl owner. Doll and child now may walk down the street together, dressed alike.

Other doll prodigies kick their legs, have hair that can be perpetually waved and washed and plastic skin that feels alarmingly human.

ELECTRONIC DOLL . . . she sings, laughs, prays and talks as if by magic.

WANDA . . . This baby doll weeps big wet tears when gently squeezed.

WANDA DRINKER . . . This doll has learned to drink from a glass now.

SKATERS' WALTZ — When Rangers and Red Wings started whirling around on Madison Square Garden ice, even New York Goalie Chuck Rayner got into the act—with the result a score for Detroit. Clockwise from lower left, the players Allen Staley and Jack Evans of New York, Marty Pavelich of Detroit, Rayner and the Wings' Jimmy Peters. The Wings had something to dance about, humiliating the home club, 9-0.

New City Hockey Club Has First Tryout Tomorrow

In preparation for its debut in the last Northern Michigan-Wisconsin Senior Hockey League composed of Escanaba, Calumet, Marquette, Portage Lake and Eagle River, the new Escanaba Hockey club will hold "wide open" tryouts and first practice session at the fairgrounds rink at 7:30 tomorrow night.

"All players from Escanaba, Gladstone and elsewhere in Delta county are invited and urged to try out for the Escanaba Hawk team," club officials said today. "No positions are decided. Every player will have a chance to make the team. Players from Calumet and Sault Ste. Marie who have been contacted must try out for the team just as the Delta county candidates."

Tryouts will be held from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m. Wednesday. Additional tryouts and practice will be held Thursday and Friday nights and Saturday afternoon.

Bob Grabowski, manager of the fairgrounds rink, began freeing the exhibition building concrete surface Sunday and had nearly an inch last night.

The rink will be opened for the first time for the Escanaba hockey tryouts Wednesday night.

Big Ten Takes More Beatings

CHICAGO — (AP) — Oklahoma knocked off Minnesota 66-45 last night to shrink the Big Ten's unbeaten basketball ranks to three teams.

Indiana, Northwestern and Michigan State—all idle last night—were defeated, each owning two victories.

At Norman, Okla., the Sooners ran up a 38-22 halftime bulge over the Gophers, scoring on 37.7 per cent of their shots while Minnesota counted only 23.8. Whittie Skoog was tops for the losers with 14 points. He is averaging 12 through three games.

Iowa, a red-hot pre-season Big Ten favorite, absorbed its second successive beating. Butler's fast-break dusted off the Hawkeyes 54-51.

Iowa led twice in the finale but wilted in the last five minutes. Chuck Darling, 6 foot 8 inch Hawkeye center, rammed in 22 points for honors. He leads Big Ten scorers with a 23 average through three games.

Ohio State was handed its second loss in four starts as Missouri's upset boys grabbed a 61-51 decision at Columbus, Missouri, fresh from its win over CCNY last Saturday, potted 23 field goals on 66 shots. The Tigers led 33-23 at the half.

Notre Dame spilled Wisconsin 67-61 at South Bend to make the night a complete washout for the four Big Ten teams in action.

Leroy Leslie pumped in 23 points for the Irish and led a winning rally after the Badgers had bugged a 33-30 midway margin. Charley Gahke led Wisconsin with 17 points.

Texas Christian is at Indiana and Marquette at Michigan in tonight's only engagements for Big Ten outlaws.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

San Francisco—Joey Maxim, 183, Cleveland, knocked out Dave Whitlock, 181, San Francisco, 4.
Toronto—Arthur King, 130½, Toronto, outpointed Bobby Lloyd, 137½, Wilkes-Barre, Penn., 10.
Baltimore—Vinnie Cidone, 160, New York, stopped Jimmie Dixie, 161, Florence, Ala., 7.

Baseball World Stunned As Owners Drop Chandler

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (AP) — Failure to renew Albert B. Chandler's contract as baseball commissioner exploded a bombshell last night that left the entire sports world agog.

Flabbergasted by the major league club owners decision, the baseball people attending the winter meetings were wondering what the next move would be. About the calmest persons here were the club owners themselves.

The most surprised man was Chandler. So stunned was he that he immediately resigned, then changed his mind and decided to finish out his current five year term which expires May 1, 1952.

The anti-Chandler group is willing to buy up his contract if he will resign. Chandler's pay was officially announced last December to be $65,000 a year. It was then that the owners voted to grant him a $15,000 raise.

Couldn't Fire Him

One anti-Chandler leader, who declined the use of his name, said owners were prepared to fire Chandler on the spot but cited a baseball rule that forbids the releasing of the commissioner before the expiration of his contract.

"We are prepared to pay him for the remaining 17 months tomorrow," the owner said, "if he were to resign. That would be the best thing for the commissioner to do. It would save a lot of embarrassment and pave the

Denver Junior End Top Pass Receiver

NEW YORK — (AP) — Gordon Cooper of Denver is major college football's top pass receiver for 1950.

Cooper, a junior end, wound up the campaign with 46 catches, one more than was grabbed by Drake's Tom Bienemann.

Jim Doran of Iowa State and Don Stonesifer of Northwestern followed with 42 each but Doran had more yardage, 652 to 560.

Brown Favored For Fesler's Job

COLUMBUS, O. — (AP) — Ohio's sports editors favor Paul E. Brown, coach of Cleveland's professional club, to succeed resigned Wesley Fesler as Ohio State university's head football mentor.

Of 29 editors participating in an Associated Press poll today, 16 named Brown as their first choice for the Buckeye job and four had him in second place.

Chuck Mather, Massillon high school coach who won the state scholastic championship the last three years, was next.

Selection of a new boss for the Bucks probably is weeks away.

University President Howard L. Bevis, said:

"A special committee of the athletic board will be established to assist athletic director Dick Larkins in a search for a successor to Wesley Fesler. All candidates will be considered carefully, and the search will be nationwide."

Fesler, in his first public appearance since his resignation, told a Toledo audience last night that one of the reasons he quit was because "the only measuring stick for a successful coach is win, win, win."

He continued: "Instead of thinking about winning, the fans should ask themselves 'what is the coach doing for the boys?' When that times comes about, then the best men will stay in the business."

"I played every game the last four years. I made every tackle, tossed every pass, ran every play and kicked out of trouble every time one of my players did. You can't keep that up and stay healthy."

He said he was through with coaching and on Jan. 1 will go to work for John Galbreath, Columbus realtor and president of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Other coaches suggested by the sports editors include Sid Gillman, Cincinnati; Harry Strobel, Ohio State freshman coach; Bear Bryant, Kentucky; Bowden Wyatt, Wyoming; Wally Butts, Georgia; Don Faurot, Missouri; and Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma.

Hermansville Loses To Felch, 70 To 53

FELCH — The Hermansville Redskins went down under defeat at the hands of the Felch Foresters at Felch to a score of 70-53.

Felch sparked by Steele, high scoring forward, rolled up a 22-7 lead in the first period. Hermansville outscored the winners in the second and third periods, but Felch finished with an 18 point attack.

Steele's 23-point total made him high scorer of the night. Coatsworth and Blomquist followed him in the Felch scoring with 12 points apiece. E. Lohf led Hermansville with 19 tallies.

By quarters:

Felch 22 36 52 70
Hermansville 7 26 43 53
Officials: Pretto, Crystal Falls; Alexander, Norway.

Charles Signs To Fight Oma; Louis Meets Beshore

NEW YORK — (AP) — Ezzard Charles and the man he succeeded as heavyweight champion, Joe Louis, mapped busy winter ring schedules today—but apparently not aimed at another meeting.

Charles signed to put his title on the line for the sixth time. The place is New York's Madison Square Garden, the date Jan. 12 and the challenger Buffalo's veteran Lee Oma.

After that, Ezzard is slated to meet one of a number of pot-booming contenders in Miami in February. This one is still in the talking stage.

Louis announced a firm intention of continuing his comeback despite pleas, official and unofficial that he quit while the quitting's good.

John (Jack) Dargosa, Pennsylvania athletic commissioner, announced plans to try to bar Louis from fighting in his state "for the best interests of boxing."

In Bell River, Ont., where he's training for a Jan. 3 bout in Detroit against Freddie Beshore, the once-famous Brown Bomber took Dargosa's announcement calmly.

"I wouldn't raise a fuss if any state barred me for failing to measure up to its rules and regulations and physical requirements," he said. "I plan to get back in condition and take on each opponent as he comes up."

After Beshore, Louis is talking about fighting Tommy Gomez in Miami and Rex Layne in San Francisco.

Other boxing figures quickly bounced up to defend Louis' comeback efforts.

Abe Greene, commissioner of the International Boxing association, said: "I would not want to be a party to barring Joe Louis from boxing. He has meant too much to the sport."

James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing club, and Marshall Miles, Louis' manager, said in a joint statement: "Louis is fighting because he wants to fight. No pressure from any source has been exerted to force him back into the ring."

Michigan Meets Marquette Tonight; Outlook Dreary

ANN ARBOR — (AP) — Michigan meets Marquette here tonight in a battle of basketball. Iowa.

Both teams have had trouble galore in this still-young season. Coach Ernie McCoy's Wolverines were trimmed by Miami (Ohio) and rugged Toledo in their only two starts to date.

Marquette has tangled with three Western conference teams. The Hilltoppers lost to Wisconsin, Illinois and Ohio State.

Thus, Marquette will be battling to dump a Big Ten team—and is rated a fair chance of doing it—while Michigan is fighting to avoid a third defeat.

The Wolverines are handicapped by the status of Chuck Mur-way for the search for a new commissioner."

Fred M. Saigh, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, one of the owners most opposed to Chandler, said he thought a new commissioner should be named as soon as possible.

"I would like to see a man with a judicial temper selected for the highest job in baseball," he said. "Let a committee be appointed to name a successor. I think this should be decided by a meeting of the minds who would consider many men. Let the job seek the best man possible. For these are trying times."

Despite the decision to oust the commissioner, there was some indication that the pro-Chandler group was prepared to make a renewed effort to save his job.

Utmost Secrecy

The owner said there was a possibility another vote would be taken today when the National and American league meet to continue their business. All owners agreed that more discussions concerning the commissioner would undoubtedly take place. Chandler is slated to preside at a joint meeting of the two circuits tomorrow.

The vote on Chandler was reported to have been 9-7. He needed 12 votes for reelection.

All owners were pledged to secrecy about their votes but this is the way they probably lined up:

Pro-Chandler—Brooklyn, Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Philadelphia A's, Washington.

Doubtful—Chicago White Sox, Pittsburgh, New York Giants.

Anti-Chandler—Philadelphia Phils, St. Louis Cards, Boston Braves, New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox, St. Louis Browns.

The campaign to oust Chandler was carried on in utmost secrecy by the owners.

Normal Cagers Lose In Three Overtimes

YPSILANTI — (AP) — Michigan State Normal college lost an interstate conference basketball game here last night to Southern Illinois, but carried the contest into three overtime periods before bowing 65-64.

At the end of regulation play the score was knotted at 66-66. The first overtime ended in a 70-70 tie, and the second in a 78-78 deadlock.

Eskymos Entertain Ishpeming; St. Joe Goes To Stephenson

Escanaba high school cagers play their first "home" game of the season Friday night, meeting another Ishpeming powerhouse, while St. Joseph plays its second straight game away, this time at Stephenson.

Ishpeming, last year's state champions, comes to Escanaba with a record of 13 consecutive victories.

The Hematites, coached again by the astute C. C. Watson, were nothing less than sensational over the weekend, running up 137 points in trouncing Munising Friday night and Calumet Saturday night.

They walloped Munising, 70 to 30, and disposed of a good Calumet team, 67 to 51.

"Terrible Terry" Thompson If the Eskymos hope to stop the Ishpeming powerhouse, they will have to devise some way to throttle center Terry Thompson, who got 30 points against Munising and 27 against Calumet to bring his season's average to more than 23 points a game.

Thompson is ably supported by Charles Lindberg, Roger Corcoran, Robert Sharland, Hugo Ruohomaki and John Juntti, returning letterman, and Irwin Dubinski, Richard Swanson and Tom Jenkins.

In addition to Munising and Calumet, Ishpeming has trounced Iron Mountain and nosed out Stambaugh, 45 to 44. The Iron Mountain score was 57 to 36. The Eskymos lost to Iron Mountain, 60 to 30.

Introducing

(This is the first of a series of thumbnail sketches 'introducing' Escanaba and St. Joseph high school basketball players to the fans. There is no significance to the order in which they are presented.)

Jack Courneene, dark-haired St. Joseph center, is master of the pivot shot. In the Escanaba game Jack dumped in eight field goals and two free throws for 18 points. He is playing his second year at center. Cour-neene, who is 17 years old, is a senior. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Courneene of 1031 Stephenson avenue. He is six feet tall and weighs about 155 pounds. He was a regular end on the Trojan football team but was hampered somewhat by injuries. And he was hurt in the third game of the basketball season. His fellow Trojans call him "Corny." His uniform number is 10.

Spilling The Dope

By Charlie Larson

The University of Michigan denies that it waived its scholastic requirements to get Chuck Ortmann to Ann Arbor, as Lloyd Larson, Milwaukee sports editor said when he was in Escanaba. . . . Arthur L. Brandon, University Relations Counselor, writes: "The application for admission of Mr. Ortmann signed by proper officials of the Riverside high school in Milwaukee showed that he stood number 77 in a class of 255. . . . this places him easily in the top third of his class. . . . except for a brief period during his freshman year at a time when transition is difficult for most students, Mr. Ortmann has been a very good student."

Hat's off to Manistique. . . . The Emeralds did what most local basketball fans didn't think they would do. . . . they beat a good St. Joseph team. . . . the victory, a well-earned one, gives Manistique's cage stock another boost. . . . it appears the Emeralds will make plenty of trouble for their opponents this year. . . . the defeat probably will make St. Joseph an even better team. . . . victories over Escanaba and Gladstone in one year may have given the boys the idea they were unbeatable (although they are a fine bunch of boys) . . . now they know they have to play ball to win every victory. . . . not a bad thing to learn this early in the season.

Hat's off, too, to Wes Fesler for quitting at Ohio State. . . . Ohio State fans never have shown any decency toward its coaches. . . . if the Buckeyes don't beat Michigan, the coaches go out the window. . . . says Fesler: "Instead of thinking about winning, the fans should ask themselves: 'What is the coach doing for the boys?' . . . Fans, not only at Ohio State but even in high schools, have become so unreasonable about winning that anyone who goes into the coaching racket these days is half off his trolley! . . . when will it end?"

Here last fall and may want to do something about evening the score. So far, Stephenson hasn't shown too much in the way of basketball. They had a hard job nosing out Bark River - Harris, overcoming a six point deficit in the last 58 seconds. And last week, they were trounced by Menominee, 44 to 14.

The Steves may find a little ray of vengeance in the Trojans' eyes. They remember all too well the shellacking Stephenson gave them in the fog-bound football game that wound up the season

AN ARBOR — (AP) — Things have changed since Michigan's football magic made Rose bowl history three years ago. West coast fans were awed with the precise and artistic fashion with which the 1947 Wolverines reduced Southern California to humiliated 49-0.

But they won't be awed by Michigan's 1950 squad now in preparation for the Jan. 1 meeting with California in Michigan's third Rose bowl appearance.

Magic Is Missing Missing is the apparently endless depth that marked "operation 1947." There's no such backfield combine as Chappuis, Derriotte, Elliott, Fonde, Yerges, Weisenburger. There's no line combine such as Tomasi, Wilkins, Rifenburg, Mann. There are no Dworshys, no Kempthorns.

This is just what the name implies—a team, one team. It has a passing-running-kicking star in Chuck Ortmann. And he's one of the best.

It has a fullback who would please any coach or fan—Don Dufek. No team has stopped his up-the-middle and off-tackle smashes yet.

In Leo Koeckel, Michigan has a former star. Healthy, he was one of the best. He's still nursing a knee injury suffered in the Army game Oct. 14 and may or may not be at ten caliber by Jan. 1.

The Wolverines have a good, not great, line offensively. Defensively, there's a good line and, again if health permits, two fine linebackers.

Zatkoff Injured Tony Mosen has been a defensive stalwart in the line-backing department this season. His opposite number, sophomore Roger Zatkoff, has done a great job on the other side of the line—when he was healthy. Right now, he is favoring an ankle sprain that impaired his play for the last month of the regular season.

There's little or no depth. In-

Detroit Given '51 Star Game

Wilkinson Job Best: Writers

NEW YORK — (AP) — Boyish Bud Wilkinson not only led his Oklahoma football team to the National championship this year but turned in the season's best coaching job in doing it.

That's the opinion of sports writers and broadcasters participating in the Associated Press year-end poll.

Wilkinson won in a close race with Charley Caldwell of Princeton and Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf of California.

Wilkinson received 44 votes, Caldwell 30 and Waldorf 26.

Ivy Williamson of Wisconsin drew 12. Others getting five or more included Biggie Munn of Michigan State.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (AP) The American league today eliminated any possibility of a pennant being won or lost through a club's failure to play out the schedule because of rain or any other "act of God."

Other developments:

1. Detroit got the 1951 all-star game.

2. The American, as well as the National league, also voted to eliminate the bonus rule and end the high school agreement.

3. The trading card produced only one deal. The Chicago White Sox sent 33-year-old Mike McCormick to Washington for 34-year-old Eddie Stewart.

Assign Extra Days By unanimous vote, the American league decreed that after the close of the season the president could assign two extra days for the playing off of postponed contests which might affect the championship. The resolution was submitted by the New York Yankees, who went to the final day before winning the flag in 1949 and the last three days before repeating the feat in '50.

Although only once, back in 1908, has a flag been decided because of the weather, baseball men long have agitated that open dates be provided for unplayed games.

The National league was expected to adopt a similar policy.

The American league also voted to finish under lights any day game threatened by darkness. Last year this was done only in the final series between two clubs.

The loop also agreed to play rained out day games the same night with the visiting club's permission.

Frick Re-elected Detroit requested and received permission from the National league to stage the 1951 all-star game in conjunction with the celebration of that city's 250th anniversary. It was to have been the Philadelphia Phillies' turn.

Both leagues adopted a national defense service rule crediting players for each year's service in the armed forces.

Ford Frick was re-elected president of the National league for a four-year-term at a salary increase. His new pay is reported to be $55,000 annually. Tom Yawkey, Boston owner, was named American league member of the major league executive council.

2 Tight Games In City League

Groos Drugs and McNeess Products were easy winners and Shamrocks had a breeze in city league basketball games last night.

Kenny Dufresne dumped in 14 points and John Hira 10 as the Groos outfit nosed out the Shamrocks, 39 to 36. Jim Nyquist topped the losers with 15 points.

Don Moreau's seven points topped the McNeess team which nosed out the National Guard, 26 to 24. Bucky Breault had six for Guard's top man.

Billy Rajala poured in 23 points and Ray Hira 17 as the Shamrocks piled up a 70 to 42 win over the Cloverland College crew, whose Joe Frijten scored 20 points.

Tonight at 6:30 Clairmonts play K. of C. Andy's meet Waits and a hour later and Harnischfeger and Kesslers wind up the evening.

Critical Power Shortage Surrounds H-Bomb Site

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Location of the new H-bomb materials plant in the Augusta, Ga.-Alben, S. C., vicinity, raises many problems on electric power shortage in this area. Next to Bonneville in the northwest, the southeast is the number two power shortage area in the U. S. Primary reason is that the South is growing, industrially, faster than new power supply can be made available. A second reason is that large blocs of Tennessee Valley Authority power are already assigned to defense and atomic energy production in the Knoxville area.

LOOKED AT MELSTRAND
It is believed the cutover area at Melstrand in the northern part of Algen county was surveyed as a possible site for the H-bomb plant. Government engineers were reported to have visited the area during the summer and early fall.

Principal power generating companies in the area now are:
1. The privately owned South Carolina Electric and Gas Co. It now has an estimated 300,000 kilowatt peak load with a 225-000 kw. capacity. It has been buying 40,000 kw. from the state power authority.
2. This South Carolina Public Service Authority operates the 132,000 kw. Santee-Cooper dam and power plant some 100 miles east of the H-bomb materials plant site. The Santee-Cooper system was started as a Public Works Administration project back in depression days. It was completed by bond sale, most of the bonds being held now by Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

County Plant Too Small
3. The Greenwood County Utility Board operates the small Buzzards' Roost hydro-electric plant some 75 miles to the northwest. But this installation does not generate enough power for its own customers, and is afraid it will be swallowed up by the state's Santee-Cooper system.

4. Georgia Power and Light operates on the other side of the Savannah River, but has never sold power in South Carolina. One reason is that it has no power to spare, with a peak load of 1-300,000 kw. that is constantly growing. Another reason these companies don't like to connect their grids and operate across state lines is that to do so would bring them under audit and control regulation of Federal Power Commission.

Last March, Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman created the Southeastern Power Administration, to handle the marketing of any surplus power that might become available from Army Corps of Engineers flood control dams. SPA's area includes Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia and the southwest corner of Pennsylvania. Tennessee Valley Authority territory is excluded.

So far, therefore, SPA has had only 110,000 kw. of power to dispose of from two dams—Dale Hollow on the Cumberland River in Tennessee, and Allatoona in northwest Georgia. But there are eight other dams and generating plants under construction with a total capacity of 830,000 kw. And 19 other projects in the 10-state area with a potential capacity of over 1,000,000 kw. have been authorized by Congress, though not appropriated for.

BEARS UP UNDER HONORS—Smokey, the black bear cub who became famous last June when he was rescued from a New Mexico forest fire, was made an honorary member of the District of Columbia Fire Prevention Council. He's busy chewing up the fireman's hat presented to him by Fire Chief Mayhew for his services in fire prevention. The U. S. Forest Service uses him in its fire prevention campaigns, as seen on poster at left.

Biggest of the projects under construction is the mile-long, 200-foot dam and 280,000 kw. power plant at Clark Hill on the Savannah River. It is about 25 miles upstream from the H-bomb plant site. Clark Hill is now scheduled for completion in 1952-54, but the work could presumably be speeded up.

H Plant Rates Priority
Power from this $75,000,000 project was originally intended to take care of normal commercial and residential growth. But a government installation like the Savannah River AEC plant would presumably get first claim on such power if demanded in national defense interest. Still farther upstream is the power plant at Hartwell. Engineering has been started on this $83,000,000 project, but ground has not been broken. It is now scheduled for completion in 1953. Southeastern Power Administration has opened offices at Elberton, Ga., near Hartwell. Ben Creim, former Bonneville engineer and Bureau of Reclamation regional manager in the west is SPA head. Diverting Clark Hill and Hartwell power to the H-bomb materials plant will only aggravate the growing power shortage of this area. It would make power cut-backs and brown-out inevitable. Only solution will be to build other hydro-electric power plants now authorized by Congress, plus still greater steam plant expansion by Georgia Power, South Carolina Electric and other private utilities.

In the long haul, the fight against communism will not be won unless the free peoples of the world show clearly and conclusively that it is they, and not the Communists, who have the courage and skill to really do something about poverty and injustice. — Presidential assistant John Steelman.
